

FutureSol® Refined Glycerin

Product Stewardship Summary

Chemical Identification

- Chemical Abstract Service (CAS) Number: 56-81-5
- Product Name: FutureSol® Refined Glycerin

Description of FutureSol® Refined Glycerin

Glycerin has approximately 1500 different uses across a wide variety of markets such as, but not limited to, humectants, explosives, animal feed, antifreezes, polymers, and chemical manufacturing. FutureSol® Refined Glycerin is available in bulk by truck or rail and in package form in drums and totes.

Properties of FutureSol® Refined Glycerin

- Water white viscous liquid
- Boiling point ~290°C
- Density = 1.26

Safety & Health Information of FutureSol® Refined Glycerin

Normal safe handling procedures should be used in the workplace. Workers should follow recommendations of Safety Data Sheets (SDS). Consumers are at little risk of being exposed to FutureSol® Refined Glycerin under normal conditions of use. The following describes health effects from exposure to Glycerin

- Skin Contact: May cause skin irritation
- Eye Contact: May cause eye irritation
- Inhalation: Mist may cause irritation of the respiratory tract
- Ingestion: May cause digestive tract irritation

Product Stewardship

This summary provides basic chemical, health, and safety information. For further details, you may email us at productsafety@ffcm.com .